

The HandshoeMouse Shift has a patented design and is fully focused on ergonomics.

Extra comfort and a more relaxed posture

A lightly slanted palm and finger supporting computer mouse requires the least muscle activity in the hand and results in reduced neural excitation. Further, the ambidextrous Shift can be easily switched from left to right, so that you can use the mouse with both hands alternating. Thanks to Bluetooth, you can use the HandshoeMouse Shift via easy digital wireless communication without a disturbing cable. With the HandshoeMouse Shift you will reduce the muscle activity in your hand and fingers, and will work more comfortably, -natural and -ergonomically.

Ergonomic background

Biomechanical research has shown that a palm supporting surface provides a better solution to prevent neck, shoulder, arm, and hand complaints. Therefore, it is recommended to use a computer mouse, which minimises or even eliminates the grip forces to hold the mouse (K.J. van Zwieten et al.: Health – the base of human potential: problems and ways to solve them, 2011).
